Lighthouse Life

There is something about lighthouses that seems to speak to the souls of people worldwide, but perhaps especially to people living on island nations such as Japan, the UK and Ireland. Today, we will talk about, and look at, some photos and videos of lighthouses that show the history and beauty of lighthouses around the coast of Ireland and the UK. We will talk about the life of a lighthouse keeper and his family, and finally we will learn about the mysterious disappearance of the lighthouse keepers on an island off the coast of Scotland. I hope we all have fun learning about a unique way of life.

Class 2 Jason Pover

Australia ; 'the Land Down Under'

Not much was known South of Asia, so when explorers discovered Australia, they coined it "Down Under." The reasoning is simple; the location was unknown, as it was located in the Southern Hemisphere, below most known countries. How much do you know about Australia, apart from the opera house in Sydney? In our talk, I will provide you with some interesting historical facts, information about landmarks, Aussie food, as well as some famous slang and colloquialisms. Let me take you on a mini journey of my beautiful country.

Class 3 Julien Sainte

The Pivotal History of New York

~From Indigenous Cultures to Modern Metropolis~

New York's history spans over 10,000 years, from indigenous arrivals and European "discovery" to its current status as a global metropolis. Its role in the American Revolution, constitution, transportation, and industrialization is highlighted, with New York City emerging as a global icon after an economic crisis in the 1970s. I hope we can learn about New York beyond the tall buildings.
